The pleasant method and beneficial effects of the well known remedy, Syrup of Figs, manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co., illustrate the value of obtaining the liquid laxative principles of plants known to be medicinal laxative and presenting them in the form most refreshing to the taste and acceptable to the system. It is the one perfect strengthening laxative, cleansing the system effectually, dispelling colds, headaches and fevers gently yet promptly and enabling one to overcome habitual constipation permanently. Its perfect freedom from every objectionable quality and substance, and its acting on the kidneys, liver and bowels, without weakening or irritating them, make it the ideal laxative.

In the process of manufacturing Figs are used, as they are pleasant to the taste, but the medicinal qualities of the remedy are obtained from senna and other aromatic plants, by a method known to the California Fig Syrup Co. only. In order to get its beneficial effects and to avoid imitations, please remember the full name of the Company printed on the front of every package.

KENTUCKY FEUD RAGING.

Tom Baker's Widow Prays for a Man-Killing Son.

Barbourville special to the Globe-Democrat says: Wiley Baker, brother of Tom Baker, and Jim Baker, the 17-year old son of the dead feud leader, were brought here this afternoon and placed in the Knox county jail. They were in the custody of Deputy Sheriff Stubblefield, but were kept under close guard by the troops.

Before they left Manchester yesterday afternoon the Bakers told their friends goodbye, saying that it was likely they would prove additional victims for the Howards before they got out of town. They were placed in the center of a double line of soldiers and completely surrounded, so that it would have been impossible for even the best marksman to have shot one of them without hitting a soldier. Every one of the guards had his rifle loaded and a full complement ammunition in his belt.

A detachment walked on either side of the double line, in front and behind, and kept a sharp lookout for marksmen at windows and in doorways.

The Bakers and the soldiers got out of town without a mishap and were marched over the hilly road cheerfully until they came to a short turn in the highway about four miles from Manchester. There one of the White sympathizers, who was with the expedition, tried to ride ahead of the procession. Col. Williams had given explicit orders against this, and the gentleman was halted. He got angry and swore he would have the wagon unloaded and let the soldiers carry their luggage. He declared one of the wagons needed repairs, and he must go to the front and see to it.

Col. Williams personally took the belligerent in hand and told him he could not unload the wagon or go to the front. Col. Williams then ordered a reconnaissance of the deeply wooded hill around which the road turned.

AMBUSCADE ANTICIPATED. Before the scouts had gone far into the wood they discovered twenty or thirty armed men in hiding and Col. Williams ordered the Gatling gun unlimbered and trained on the wood. A scattering of mountaineers followed. The surprised ambushers ran out of the bushes in a hurry.

When all apparent danger was over, the Gatling which had twice saved the soldiers from a pitched battle, was limbered up and the procession moved on to a point fourteen miles from Manchester, where it camped for the night. Before midnight a heavy rain fell and continued through the night, drenching the soldiers and making the roads difficult for marching.

The expedition reached this place at noon. After their prisoners were placed in jail, the soldiers camped at the court house and prepared dinner. The men are nearly worn out, as they have been on duty continuously for ten days and have slept little and worked much.

Capt. Bryan's company, which guarded Tom Baker's remains to his old home at Ammi, near Crane Creek, yesterday, will march through to London and join the two companies there to-night. They will reach Lexington to-morrow. Tom Baker's remains were buried at Ammi to-day.

Col. Williams reports the feeling in Manchester as very bitter between the surviving Bakers and the Howards and Whites, and it is generally conceded that the feud is now at a critical stage.

It is considered dangerous for people to travel on the highways, for men are known to be "lying out" for the friends of White and Howard, and persons are likely to be shot from ambush by mistake. At Manchester last night, a horse was killed, its throat being cut by unknown parties. The horse was used by the messenger who has been carrying dispatches to the telegraph office at London. The brutal killing of this horse, following, as it does, the notifying of all correspondents to leave Clay county, seems to give notice to all that no communication is wanted with the outside world.

Tom Baker's widow says she prays her unborn child will be a boy to help his eleven brothers kill all the Whites and Howards they can. She declares she will teach her children that it is their duty to kill every man that had a hand in the murder of their father.

MOUNTAINEERS WROUGHT UP. The Kentucky mountains, from Big Sandy River to the Tennessee line, are in a blaze of excitement over the killing of Tom Baker. The Garbards, of Clay county, who have always been Baker sympathizers, are greatly incensed over Baker's death, and swear vengeance. Gilbert Garbards, who was run out of Clay county last summer because he favored the Bakers started to Manchester this morning from Middleboro with several friends. He was seen by the Globe-Democrat correspondent. He said he intended lending his aid to his friends.

Reports from Harlan Court House, Whitesburg and Pikeville state that Baker sympathizers and kinsmen in large numbers are on their way to the scene of Tom Baker's death.

TOM MESSENGER FALLS A VICTIM TO THE LEES' VENGEANCE.

Middleboro.—The work of extermination in the Lee-Taylor feud in the wilds of Harlan county goes swiftly on. Tom Messer, a member of the Taylor faction, has fallen a victim to the vengeance of the Lees, in retaliation for the murder of Abe Lee, which occurred last Wednesday night. Messer was assassinated on Saturday night, but owing to the distance of the scene from the telegraph station, the news was not received here until to-day.

Since the assassination of Abe Lee last week it has been reported that Messer and Will Varber, both kinsmen of the Taylors, were the authors of the deed. At 8 o'clock Saturday night, while Messer was on his way to the spring, which is several hundred yards from his home, for a bucket of water, a volley rang out from the bushes to his right. He fell dead at the first volley, but his assassins continued to pour volley after volley into his body. Then they sprang on their horses, which were in waiting near by, and rode swiftly away. They next went to Varber's home, but Varber fled. He rode thirty miles on horseback to Harlan Court House and gave himself to the authorities.

He denies any guilt, but says he wants the protection of the law against the Lees. He is closely guarded.

The Lees will probably go to Harlan Court House for Varber, and it is believed the Taylors will attempt to intercept them. Should this occur, a fearful battle will be the result.

Where is Heaven?

The question asked, Where is heaven?

We answer, Go out on the first pleasant evening and looked up at the heavenly constellations—millions of worlds, as we have reason to believe, far greater than our own—and you will feel that in God's universe there is plenty of room for every soul He has created.

Has not the Creator of human souls power to continue their duration in any part of His universe?

Long-Lived Microbes.

The plague microbe is most persistent. A foreign paper gives the following facts:—In 1665, the Dutch city of Haarlem was devastated by the plague. Whole families perished, and among them a family of the name of Cloux, the members of which were buried in the Haarlem church. Some time ago it was found that the masonry of the tomb was out of repair, and the vault was entirely rebuilt. The masons in charge of the work remained in the vault an entire day, and, strange to say, notwithstanding the fact that two centuries had passed since the epidemic all these workmen were attacked with the infectious glandular swelling called "bubo," and had to undergo treatment at the hospital. There were no symptoms, however, of the plague proper, and all recovered.

RICHARD P. BLAND.

The father of the silver question is dead at Lebanon, Mo. Richard P. Bland began the crusade more than twenty years ago and never faltered for a moment in his devotion to his idea of "bimetallism." He entered Congress in 1873, the year of the "great crime," and it was in the very next Congress that he began the agitation. That was the Forty-fourth grand inquest of the nation and it was the theater of many stirring scenes. It began with the debate of Randall's amnesty resolution, made illustrious by the speeches of Blaine and Garfield on one side and Ben Hill and Lamar on the other. There were giants in those days. It impeached Belknap. It investigated the Mulligan letters and almost broke Blaine's heart and totally ruined his political fortunes. It created the tribunal that tried the election case of Hayes and Tilden. It had no time to think of the coinage question. Bland was about the only man in that Congress who did think of it.

In the succeeding Congress the famous Bland Bill was passed. It was a straight free coinage bill and Bland introduced it in every Congress since, except one, and if he had been a member of that body he would have introduced it in that, too. Nearly everybody voted for his bill in the Forty-sixth Congress. Nobody except a few Eastern men had studied the question, though, as I now recollect, old Bill Morrison voted against it. There is a man with as strong native, instinctive common-sense as Abraham Lincoln. He ought to have been President. The administration was opposed to the free coinage of silver, and the result was a compromise known as the Bland-Allison act, under the operation of which an enormous volume of silver coin and silver certificates was added to the currency. It was during that Congress that Mr. Carlisle made that speech which the silverites are so fond of quoting. They take good care to leave out his declaration made in that same speech that he was opposed to the free and unlimited coinage of silver at the ratio of 16 to 1. That was in 1878. I have often wondered why the Palmer and Buckner National Committee did not print and circulate the whole speech if only to show what a shameless lot of expurgators the silver literary bureau of 1895 was.

Slavery perished in this country because the civilization of the Nineteenth century decreed it. Old Tom Carlyle was the only great man in England who thought African slavery could be made a good institution. The enlightened civilization of the world has doomed slavery as a "money of final redemption," as the phrase goes, and there is no getting round it. But Bland persisted. Carlisle made him chairman of Coinage, Weights and Measures in 1883; but no free coinage bill was passed by that Congress, though a majority would have voted for one had the Speaker given the opportunity. So Carlisle was yet opposed to free silver in 1883. It is true that nearly every Democrat in both houses voted for silver in 1890; but that was under the lead of Gorman, who gave the promise to Senator Stewart, of Nevada. The bargain was that Father Stewart, in consideration of Democratic votes for silver, would bring enough silver Republican votes to kill the Lodge Force Bill. Stewart killed the Lodge Bill; the Democrats—nearly all of them—voted for silver. That was all there was of that.

Bland would have been nominated for President in 1896 if the Senatorial junta had not been for Teller. Isham G. Harris was the man who dug up the silver corpse after it was buried in 1895. Buck Henrichsen thought he did it, but it was the "old man" who was the Jerry Cruncher of that occasion. Harris' purpose was to carry every State west of Mississippi, including Iowa, and he chose a Republican for that work—Teller. Had Teller been nominated Harris would have been chairman of the National Committee, and he would have been a mighty dangerous man. The junta's second choice was Bland. Meantime Bryan stamped the convention with the crown of thorns and cross of gold metaphor—which, by the way, Edmund Burke had employed in his great speech on the "Regency Bill" more than 100 years before the Senatorial crowd were disgusted and old Harris was furious. He used some cuss words about "a twenty five hundred dollar man" and spent the time till election on his Texas ranch. There were no fringes and turbanes about old Harris.

One of the strange things of our politics was the capture of George F. Williams by Bland. George Fred had much to do with the slaughter of the Bland Bill of the Fifty-second Congress. He was the goldbug "whip" that night. He, Bourke Cockran and Tom Reed were in constant conference. Later Williams and Bland became boom cronies. Bland looks more like a farmer than any other man in Congress unless it is old Joe Cannon; Williams looked more like a dude than any man in Congress unless it was Harry Bingham. All of a sudden Williams discovered, what everybody else had known all the time, that Bland was a thoroughly honest man. He went home and proclaimed it from the housetops. His brother Magwump, Sherman Hoar, endorsed the statement and all Massachusetts was duly informed that old Dick Bland was a straight man. You see it was this way—Bland had promised them that he would not hold any "snap" session of the Coinage Committee. Williams seemed to be astonished when the old fellow kept his word.

As square a man as ever lived passed over the river when Dick Bland died.

An Editor's Appeal.

A Mississippi editor makes this appeal to delinquent subscribers: "Fish down into your pocket and dig up dust; the editor is hungry and the paper 'bout to bust. We've trusted you for several months, and did it with a smile, so just return the compliment and trust us for a while. Our wife needs some stockings and baby needs a dress; Jimmy needs some breeches, and so does Kate and Bess. Pad is on the hog train and Peggy sick with grief, and good good almighty, can't you give a man relief? Shell out those nickels and turn loose the dime; turn 'em loose and whistle and we'll have better times; there will be fewer patches on the bosom of our pants, and we'd make the paper better if we had half a chance. Don't give us that old story, long gone to seed, 'bout taking more papers than the family want to read; but help to feed the printer, and he'll help our town to grow, and thus escape the sulphur in the regions down below."

C. P. HUNTINGTON.

Sketch of the Career of the Pacific Railway Magistrate.

For 40 years C. P. Huntington—he is generally known by his initials, for he has a strange aversion to writing his full name—has been extending his railroad, beginning at the Central Pacific in its infant stage, and ending only at the complete system which carries you across the northern Rockies and back through the tallest of the range in the same way.

It is doubtful if, when in 1849, young Huntington started for the California gold country, he had any idea he would succeed. Only 25 years old, with a slender purse, he started out to make his fortune. He was very engaging, and soon formed the acquaintance of one Leland Stanford, a young fellow about his age. Leland Stanford knew a young fellow named Mark Hopkins, and Mark Hopkins was acquainted with an energetic fortune seeker named Crocker.

The four, C. P. Huntington, Leland Stanford, Mark Hopkins and Charles Crocker, trudged across the country to California, and there talked of their hard journey. They conceived the idea of the Central Pacific, and they set to work to dig gold out of the ground with which to build a railroad to connect the Atlantic and Pacific—a scheme which in those days, was considered the wildest dream a vagrant fancy could conceive.

But the Central Pacific was conceived and built and it made millions. Then the four partners, now rich beyond the dream of avarice, parted, Sanford to Washington; Huntington to identify himself with St. Louis and New York; Hopkins to retire to his Berkshire country home in the Berkshires and Charles Crocker to remain in California to instruct his sons in the art of keeping a fortune together.

Mr. Huntington's immediate family consists of Mrs. Huntington, who is a remarkably handsome woman of middle age, and relatives who act as companions to his wife. His pursuits are, where indoors, those of reading and attending to his correspondence; out doors, that of looking after his country estate.

Millions Given Away.

It is certainly gratifying to the public to know of one concern in the land who are not afraid to be generous to the needy and suffering. The proprietors of Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds, have given away over ten million trial bottles of this great medicine; and have the satisfaction of knowing it has absolutely cured thousands of hopeless cases. Asthma, Bronchitis, Hoarseness and all diseases of the Throat, Chest and Lungs are surely cured by it. Call on J. H. Williams, Druggist, and get a free trial bottle. Regular size 50c. and 8c. Every bottle guaranteed, or price refunded.

Its Pathos Lost.

"Now, is not that pathetic?" said a benevolent looking old gentleman, standing with a friend in a nearby doorway. "See how the poor creature looks! You and I, who can get any sort of refreshing drink whenever we want it, can't imagine what a luxury it is to them! That little fellow is happy because he has rescued a morsel of coolness from a filthy gutter! Come here a minute, my boy."

The child approached by cautious detours, shifting his ice from one hand to the other.

"Here is a dime for you," said the old gentleman, kindly. "Go buy yourself a glass of lemonade. You mustn't eat that stuff; it may make you sick."

"I wasn't goin' to eat it," replied the gamin, seizing the coin.

"Indeed!" exclaimed the philanthropist in surprise. "What did you want with it, then?"

The urchin grinned.

"I wanted ter put it down de blind man's back," he replied.—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

The Trusts and Politics.

In his speech at St. Louis to the Democrats who ate a two-dollar dinner as a testimony against trusts, Mr. Bryan unconsciously spoke one bit of common sense:

"The Republican party is impotent to destroy trusts."

So is any other party. At this moment the loudest howl against trusts comes from Democratic States, where Democratic legislatures have had plenty of time and inclination to destroy trusts. They have passed laws against them and keep passing laws against them, but the trusts continue to flourish in spite of all this tory of legislation. Texas, for instance, had a terrible anti-trust law, which wouldn't hold water; and now it has passed a still more terrible one, which will not hold water either. There has been, we believe, exactly one case in Missouri of a customer of a trust taking advantage of the provision in the State law that a debt due to a trust shall be non-collectible. Not even by invitations to dishonesty can the legislatures make any headway against the trusts. Laws are piled on laws, and every trust act is more sweeping than its predecessor and will be just as futile. The Republican party, and the Democratic party, and every other party, is impotent against the trusts because the trusts arise from a business necessity. The legislatures might as well make statutes against multiplication or the rule of three. Not that there are not trusts that are built upon wind and sand, but those that stand and those that fall will be governed by the laws of business and not by political declamations.—New York Sun.

ONLY ONE CURE FOR SCROFULA.

S. S. S. is the Only Remedy Equal to this Obsolete Disease.

There are dozens of remedies recommended for Scrofula, some of them no doubt being able to afford temporary relief, but S. S. S. is absolutely the only remedy which completely cures it. Scrofula is one of the most obstinate, deep-seated blood diseases, and is beyond the reach of the many so-called purifiers and tonics because something more than a mere tonic is required. S. S. S. was treated for a long while, but the physicians were unable to cure me, and my condition was as bad as when I began my treatment. Many blood remedies were used, but without effect. Some one recommended S. S. S., and I began to improve as soon as I had taken a few bottles. Continuing the remedy, I was soon cured permanently and have never had a sign of the disease to return. Swift's Specific—

S. S. S. FOR THE BLOOD.

—is the only remedy which can promptly reach and cure obstinate, deep-seated blood diseases. By relying upon it, and not experimenting with the various so-called tonics, etc., all sufferers from blood troubles can be promptly cured, instead of enduring years of suffering which gradually but surely undermines the constitution. S. S. S. is guaranteed purely vegetable, and never fails to cure Scrofula, Eczema, Cancer, Rheumatism, Contagious Blood Poison, Bolls, Tetters, Pimples, Bores, Ulcers, etc. Insist upon S. S. S.; nothing can take its place. Books on blood and skin diseases will be mailed free to any address by the Swift Specific Company, Atlanta, Georgia.

FRIDAY, JUNE 23.

REPUBLICAN TICKET.

FOR STATE SENATOR,
CAPT. N. T. HOWARD.
FOR REPRESENTATIVE,
MR. C. C. FARMAN.

GEN. W. S. TAYLOR is still sweeping everything before him and his nomination is practically assured.

The Lexington convention should nominate Hon. M. L. Heavrin, of Ohio county, for Attorney General.

MR. BEN D. RINGO has been elected member of the State Democratic Executive Committee for the Fourth Congressional District.

Those free silver Democrats who applauded the passage of the Goebel election law have just realized the gi-gantic machine it has built up under the manipulation of the Kenton boss.

Should Hardin win the nomination he would be again handicapped by his platform which will endorse the railroad and election bills that he abhors and would insure his defeat.
Poor Wat, he is doomed to a life of public disappointment.

OUR own Shelby Taylor led a dozen Goebel Democrats in the convention here Saturday and now carries the thirteen votes of Ohio county in his vest pocket at the Louisville convention. Goebel ought to be proud of him.

The Peace Conference at the Hague, despite the funny paragraph-ers, is laying the foundation for a better understanding between nations.
Being by nature an optimist we may be pardoned for predicting a new era of international good-feeling to date from the assembling of the Czar's Peace Congress.

BROTHER BEN D. RINGO in the convention here Saturday denounced Gov. Bradley for calling out the State Guard to curb Jim Williams and his gang in the Legislature of 1895, and the Louisville Convention had to adjourn at 8 o'clock Wednesday evening to give the Hon. Jim more time to lick a couple of Hardin followers on the floor of the convention. Who was right, Bradley or Ringo?

MR. BEN D. RINGO led the silver forces against the Stone-Goebel-gold combine Saturday and made the principal speech of the convention.
Mr. Ringo appealed for logical action upon the part of the convention, but the gold men were in the saddle and rode roughshod over the convention.
If Ohio county Democrats reflect the Democratic sentiment of the nation the silver issue is doomed.

The Democratic convention here Saturday was a complete throwdown for the party organization in this county. Men who three years ago were denied a hearing in Democratic conventions here were in full control Saturday. Men whom Democrats openly charge with voting for McKinley in 1896 rode roughshod over the convention and dictated the resolutions, and named the delegates to the Louisville convention.

The candidacy for Attorney General of Hon. M. L. Heavrin is meeting with favor in all parts of the State and his friends feel confident of his nomination. Mr. Heavrin's splendid ability as a lawyer, and his recognized fitness as a political leader insures for him a strong following in the Lexington convention. If the Republicans of Kentucky will nominate Mr. Heav-rin for Attorney General, we will guarantee for the whole State ticket an increased majority of 500 votes in Ohio county.

It is doubtless true that the more serious defects in our governments, State and national, are largely due to the fact that the professional politicians largely control the policies of the political parties. Most Governmental abuses result from the conduct of incompetent or irresponsible officials who hold their positions by virtue of their ability to control conventions and elections. The only remedy for these abuses is for the sturdy farmers, industrious mechanics and busy mine and factory operatives to turn out to the political conventions, select the candidates and shape the policies of the political parties.

The Democratic State convention is in session in Music Hall, Louisville, this week. The Stone-Goebel combination after an exciting contest elected Judge D. B. Redwine, of Jackson.
Breathitt county, temporary chairman. By the election of the temporary chairman the combine will be able to effect the reorganization of the party, write the platform and possibly control the nomination for Governor, together with the minor nominees.

The platform will endorse the Chicago go platform, the Chinn school book bill, the McCord railroad bill and the Goebel election law. Goebel has complete control of the convention and with the possible exception of his own nomination will be able to dictate every action of that body. The nomination for Governor will probably be made to day.

The waste of the silver issue was thoroughly demonstrated in the Democratic convention here Saturday.
Every sound money Democrat in the county supported Stone whose record on the money question is satisfactory to the gold men. The Democratic silver leaders here whose time and money had been freely given to the campaigns of '95, '96 and '97 were completely ignored while the gold men who had taken no part in those stormy campaigns controlled every action of the convention and made the list of thirteen delegates to the State convention, twelve of whom were gold men.
The Herald people vindicated the scathing denunciation of free silver by that paper sometime ago by lining up with the gold men Saturday. Even the regulation endorsement of Bryan, which is supposed to be a part of the work of every Democratic convention, was left out of the original resolutions, but a silver orphan tearfully offered an amendment endorsing the Colonel which went through in a half-hearted sort of way.

Will the Herald man who is so anxious for harmony in the Republican party in Ohio county explain to the country Democrats why he, as Secretary of the Democratic convention here Saturday, left off the list of delegates to the State convention Mr. R.
S. Lanham, of Etanville, who had been regularly elected by the convention, and put in his place Mr. Rowan Holbrook whom the Herald-Stone-gold crowd had made only an honorary delegate with no right to vote in the Louisville convention? Will he also explain why, after the Goebel manager made him restore Mr. Lan-ham's name to the list of delegates, that he gave him the fourteenth or honorary place on the list with no privilege of voting in the convention while Mr. Holbrook went on the list as a regular delegate? Will the Herald man stop his senseless chatter about self-constituted bosses in the Republican party long enough to explain his unpardonable insult to the banner Democratic precinct of Ohio county. After the convention had failed to recognize Mr. Holbrook the Herald man undertook to do so by striking a regular delegate from the list, and the Democrats of Etanville precinct would doubtless like to know whether Mr. Lanham was selected for the sacrifice because he was regarded as the most insignificant on the list, or because the Etanville Democrats were so far away they would never hear of the outrage.

The Democratic convention here Saturday vindicated everything THE REPUBLICAN has ever said about the Goebel election law. While the Gobel-Stone combination completely dominated the convention it did not dare to endorse the infamous measure. The convention endorsed the operation of the Goebel law last year, and upon the same principal Jailer Black endorses the conduct of prisoners, Foster Gross, last week, but would hesitate to guarantee it for the next.
The very fact that only the operation of the law last year was endorsed is a plain, open confession that the law itself is to vicious and corrupt for the Democrats of Ohio county to acknowledge themselves responsible for. If Ohio county Democrats believe the Goebel infamy will insure fair elections, why did they not endorse it?
What would the world say of a Prohibition convention that would endorse the operation of Prohibition last year, or a convention of Christians that would endorse the operation of the Christian religion last year, or a convention of colored men that would endorse the operation of emancipation as shown last year? Wouldn't they be regarded as cranks, cowards or hypo-crites? Will the "old established" organ, around the corner, explain why the convention here endorsed the operation of the law, but was afraid to endorse the law itself. Apologize for this ludicrous conduct of your convention if you can, brother, but the fact remains that the Goebel outrage is the hidden rock upon which your shaky ship will go to smithereens.

Former Hartford Boy.

The Courier-Journal of Tuesday had the following to say of a former Ohio county citizen, Prof. Wm. Foster, who has just been elected to the chair of Chemistry at Central University at Richmond, Ky.:

Prof. Foster, the new Professor of Chemistry, began his remarkable educational career at Hartford College, Ky., whence he was graduated with much credit, with B. S. and A. B. degrees, and took a course in Vanderbilt University. After this he taught for three years in Hartford College, his associates being Dr. Wayland Alexander. In 1895 Dr. Foster entered the graduate school of Princeton University and received the degree of Master of Arts. Following his graduation he was made Assistant to the Professor of Applied Chemistry, and served two years. Then he completed the research work and study for the degree of Doctor of Philosophy. Later he took course in thermodynamics under Prof. W. F.
Major, Ph. D. (Berlin), and did chemistry work under Prof. H. B. Cornwall, E. M. Ph. D. (Columbia), and Prof. L. W. McClay, D. S. (Princeton).

In his many years of study Dr.
Foster was under a large number of great scholars, all of whom heartily commended his work. Prof. E. H.
Loomis has spoken of him as "a fine type of the all-around scholar." Prof.
H. B. Cornwall says: "Dr. Foster is a thorough scholar, enthusiastic and industrious." Prof. L. M. McClay says of him: "I predict quite a future for him. He is a highly accomplished chemist and most estimable Christian gentleman." Prof. W. Fellgie, Prof.
W. B. Scott, Dr. C. F. W. McClure, Prof. Baldwin, Dr. Woodrow Wilson, President Pitkin, and the entire Princeton faculty unanimously commend Dr. Foster, and all his early Kentucky associates are enthusiastic in his praise.

Dr. Foster was born May 15, 1869, at Hartford, Ky.

A Tramp's Eloquent Lecture.

A tramp asked for a free drink in a saloon. The request was granted, and when in the act of drinking the proffered beverage, one of the young men present exclaimed:
"Stop; make us a speech. It is poor liquor that doesn't loosen a man's tongue!"
The tramp hastily swallowed down the drink, and as the rich liquor cooled through his blood he straightened himself and stood before them with a grace and dignity that all his rags and dirt could not obscure.
"Gentlemen," he said, "I look tonight at you and myself, and it seems to me I look upon the picture of my lost mankind. This bloated face was once as young and handsome as yours. This shambling figure once walked as proudly as yours, a man in the world of men. I, too, once had a home and friends and a good position. I had a wife as beautiful as an artist's dream, and I dropped the priceless pearl of her honor and respect in the wine cup, and Cleopatra-like, saw it dissolved and quaffed it down in the blinding draught. I had children as sweet and lovely as the flowers of spring, and saw them fade and die under the blighting curse of a drunken father. I had a home where love lit the flame upon the altar and ministered before it, and I put out the holy fire, and darkness and desolation reigned in its stead.

I had aspirations and ambitions that soared as high as the morning star and broke and bruised their beautiful wings, and at last strangled them that I might hear their cries no more.
To-day I am a husband without a wife, a father without a child, a tramp with no home to call his own, a man in whom every good impulse is dead.
And all swallowed up in the maelstrom of drink."
The tramp ceased speaking. The glass fell from his nerveless fingers and shattered into a thousand fragments on the floor. The swinging door pushed open and shut again, and when the little group about the bar looked up the tramp was gone.—New

THE FIEND OF NERVOUSNESS.

When a woman's mind is constantly filled with nervousness, reasoning, dread and apprehension it shows that her entire nervous system is disordered and broken down. Nine times in ten it indicates that there is some special disease or weakness of the important and delicate organs which make her a woman. Nine times in ten it means that some instant and radical measures must be taken to save her from complete mental and physical wreck.

"I was so nervous I couldn't bear to hear the sound of my own voice when alone," says Mrs. Nellie Brittenhan, of Davenport, Taylor Co., Neb. "I felt as though there was some one ready to grasp me if I least could be made. I really cannot describe the feelings I had, but I can tell you I have such ugly feelings now and I trust I never may again. I was suffering from female weakness and very much from nervous prostration."

"I was not able to do anything. I could not sleep at all. I had not had up all day since the birth of my baby, four months before I began to take Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and Golden Medical Discovery. I took six bottles of the 'Prescription' and the 'Discovery' and used Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets along with the other medicines, and I can say they have done wonders for me."

"I do all my work now and feel better than for two years. I had not eaten anything for three months except some kind of soup and crackers; now I eat anything I want to eat. I love my health to Dr. Pierce's medicines."

Discouraged, broken-down women should read these apparently hopeless cases. He will send without charge, in a plain sealed envelope, the best advice of a capable, experienced physician.

The doctor I called on said at first it well, but it grew worse and the doctor then said I had rheumatism. It continued to grow worse and I could hardly get around to work. I went to a drug store and the druggist recom-

"Courage and Strength in Times of Danger."

Read the warning between the lines. What is that warning? It is of the danger from the accumulation of badness in the blood, caused by the usual heavy living of the Winter months. Spring is the clearing, cleansing time of the year; the forerunner of the brightness and beauty of glorious summer.

Follow the principle that Nature lays down. Start in at once and purify your blood with that great specific, Hood's Sarsaparilla. It never disappoints. "Sixteen weeks of grip made me weak, but after all else failed Hood's Sarsaparilla cured me. Later I overworked, and dyspepsia and casker in mouth and stomach bothered me. I took the Sarsaparilla again and it completely restored me." Mrs. Elizabeth Foster, Exeter, N. H.

Congressman R. P. Bland, popularly known as "Silver Dick," Bland died at Lebanon, Missouri, last Tuesday. Mr. Bland was born near Hartford, in this county, in 1835 and spent his boyhood here, afterwards going to Missouri where he later attracted attention as a politician and became a national character in politics. Many of the older citizens here and at Dundee, where he also lived for awhile, will remember the country boy who it is said gave at that time little promise of future greatness. Mr. Bland devoted most of his public life to advocating the free coinage of silver. He was the logical candidate for the Presidency before the Chicago Convention in 1896, but the Democratic party with its accustomed ingratitude set him aside, and it is said that his failure to secure the nomination hastened his death. Mr. Bland was a pure, honest and upright statesman and his public life will become a part of the permanent history of his country.

Democratic Convention.

The Democratic convention here Saturday was particularly interesting to the Republicans. A fair sprinkling of the faithful, mostly sound money men, were present when Chairman Holbrook called the convention to order.

The Stone-Goebel gold combine put up Hon. Alvis Tichenor for chairman and the Hardin-Silver men offered Judge J. S. Glenn. Tichenor was chosen chairman and Mr. Heber Matthews was elected secretary.

Dr. J. S. Morton, W. N. Stevens, J. F. Carson, W. R. Chapman, P. E. Hocker, W. A. Rone and W. H. Barnes were appointed on the committee on resolutions. The work is already done. The resolutions endorsed the Chicago platform, denounced trusts, endorsed the China school book bill and endorsed the operation of the Goebel election law as shown in the last election.

The resolutions were adopted and the fun began. J. E. Bean moved to instruct for Goebel first and Hardin second, but the motion was never formally disposed of.

R. P. Hocker nominated Stone, Shelby Taylor, Goebel, and Ben D. Ringo nominated Hardin. After the voting began it was soon apparent that the Stone-Goebel combine was in the majority, particularly when a number of the combine fellows voted twice as many as three times, as charged by the Hardin men. Probably the warmest incident of the convention was the attempt of some negroes, whom the Herald coddles one week and curses the next,—to vote for the combine candidate. The Hardin men objected to the negroes voting, and yelled with the Stone fellows for going back on the trade. The delegation to the State convention is made up of the following named gentlemen, eight of whom are for Goebel, four for Stone and one for Hardin; with an additional Hardin man going as an honorary delegate.

I suffered for years from sleeplessness and nervous heart trouble. Would feel weary and used up in the morning, had no ambition and my work seemed a burden. A friend recommended Dr. Miles' Nervine, and I purchased a bottle under protest as I had tried so many remedies unsuccessfully. I thought it no use.
